Four Wilcox & Fetzer, Ltd. Reporters Receive Certification as LiveNote Reporters

Wilmington, Delaware, June 21, 2006—Wilcox & Fetzer president Kurt Fetzer and staff reporters Julie Parrack, Kathleen White Palmer and Eleanor Schwandt recently completed the Certified LiveNote® Reporter (CLR) program.

LiveNote is the most widely used litigation support software, with more than 83 percent of the top U.S. law firms using it. It enables a reporter to give a live realtime feed of legal proceedings directly to an attorney's laptop. The CLR is the only national certification that trains and tests realtime reporters on the technical aspects of providing realtime to attorneys or judges.

Wilcox & Fetzer has more CLR reporters on staff than any other court reporting firm in Delaware, and the staff holds more professional credentials than any other reporting firm in the state.

For more than three decades Wilcox & Fetzer, Ltd. has provided court reporting services, including Computer-Aided Transcription, Videoconferencing, Videotaping, Realtime Transcription, Deposition Suites, Litigation Services including E-Transcript and LiveNote, Min-U-Script and ASCII diskettes, Case Management Reports, Document Scanning, OCR and Coding/Indexing. All Wilcox & Fetzer reporters have been recognized by the National Court Reporters Association as either Registered Professional Reporters, Registered Merit Reporters, Registered Realtime Reporters or Registered Diplomate Reporters.
